Rules for Member Participation

Members should come to the meeting with a positive attitude, treat members with respect both during and outside the meetings.

Members are expected to be actively involved, complete assigned tasks, attend meetings, read and respond to written materials in a timely manner. This is a huge undertaking and requires all committee members to be active participants during the meetings and during the Members must be willing to reach a consensus. Keep an open mind that there is probably an acceptable decision that everyone can support, even if some degree of compromise is required. Once a consensus has been reached, support the group decisions and actions.

Code of Conduct

Members must be honest and trustworthy, act with integrity and in an ethical, respectful, and professional manner in their interactions with each other, junior exhibitors and the public.

Members must maintain high ethical and moral character, so that their behavior will reflect positively on the Association.

Members must undertake their duties and responsibilities with thorough preparation and careful attention to detail.

Members must maintain confidentiality about all matters that are considered in meetings.
